

PRESS RELEASE

New natural wood tiles for everlasting flooring throughout the home

The new Timberlux collection combines the character and beauty of natural wood with the resilience and practicality of porcelain tiles. Timberlux emulates luxury grade, solid wood strip boards: in size, grain, tone and subtle surface texture. However, this new porcelain tile range from Craven Dunnill is also water and stain resistant, ideal for underfloor heating, highly durable and requires no maintenance, making it an attractive flooring option throughout the entire house.

Timberlux can be installed on both floors and walls and is available in 900 x 150mm format. It is offered in a choice of six wood hues: teak brown, dark oak, green oak, mid oak, washed oak and silver grey and has a natural sheen. Unlike wood, which requires nurturing over time and will soon reveal scuffs and scratches, porcelain tiles simply need a wipe clean and remain pristine.

The practical properties of ceramic tiles make them a popular choice for wet areas in the home, including kitchens and bathrooms, as they will not stain and are water resistant. Likewise, the authentic texture and wood effect of Timberlux is an attractive and timeless style, suited to the entire home.

Timberlux porcelain tiles 900x150mm from Craven Dunnill's Renaissance Collection retail for around £45.00 m². For stockist information contact Craven Dunnill T: 01746 761611 www.cravendunnill.co.uk
