New Weekend wall tiles designed for casual living

Weekend is the new lifestyle range of ceramic wall tiles from Craven Dunnill, designed to appeal to those looking to achieve a casual, relaxed styling to their contemporary kitchen or bathroom. The range combines the latest fashionable brick shaped tiles with undulating, plaster effect texturing, soft neutral palette and innovative micro mosaic effect, in an understated satin finish.

There are two alternative designs of tiles in the Weekend range from Craven Dunnill's Renaissance Collection: a gently textured plain field tile and a mosaic tile, the Struttura, which has a random, geometric, textured surface pattern – both options are 300 x 100mm and work well interspersed on a wall.

Weekend Struttura in Fango (chocolate brown)

Both the plain Weekend and the Weekend Struttura, are available in five soft, neutral tones: Bianco (white), Grigio (grey), Nero (black), Crema (creamy beige), and Fango (chocolate brown) and have a subtle satin glaze to them, which is both practical for cleaning and appealingly informal.

Craven Dunnill is a leading retailer and distributor of ceramic floor and wall tiles. For more information Tel: 01746 761611 www.cravendunnill.co.uk, or visit the Craven Dunnill blog www.cravendunnill.co.uk/blog for the latest innovative ideas and news.
